DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claims 1-12 are drawn to a computer implemented process that merely manipulates data or an abstract idea, or merely solves a mathematical problem without a limitation to a practical application in the technological arts. For instance, claims 1-8 claims, “a method of mapping color space with chromatic formulations comprising the steps of manipulating data (number of chromatics), generating a plurality of chromatic formulations, computing additional chromatic formulations”. That is merely solves a mathematical problem without a limitation to a practical application in the technological arts. The same with claim 9 which claims a chromatic formulation and claims 10-12 which claim a method of predicting chromatic formulations in color space.

In order for a claimed invention to accomplish a practical application, it must produce a “useful, concrete and tangible result” State Street, 149 F.3d at 1373, 47 USPQ2d at 1601-02 (see MPEP 2106.II.A). A practical application can be achieved through recitation of “a physical transformation outside the computer for which a practical application in the technological arts is either disclosed in the specification or would have been known to a skilled artisan”, or “limited to a practical application within the technological arts” (MPEP 2106 IVB2(b)). Currently, claims 1-12 meet neither of these criteria. In order to for the claimed process to produce a “useful, concrete and tangible” result, recitation of one or more of the following elements is suggested:

- The manipulation of data that represents a physical object or activity transformed from outside the computer (MPEP 2106 IVB2(b)(i)).
- A recitation of a physical transformations outside the computer, for example in the form of pre or post computer processing activity (MPEP 2106 IVB2(b)(i)).
- A direct recitation of a practical application in the technological arts (MPEP 2106 IVB2(b)(ii)).

Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claims 9 and 12 drawn to functional descriptive material NOT claimed as residing on a computer readable medium. MPEP 2106.IV.B.1(a) (Functional Descriptive Material) states:

“Data structures not claimed as embodied in a computer-readable medium are descriptive material per se and are not statutory because they are not capable of causing functional change in the computer.”

“Such claimed data structures do not define any structural or functional interrelationships between the data structure and other claimed aspects of the invention which permit the data structure’s functionality to be realized.”

Claim 12, while defining a computer node, do not define a computer program residing in a “computer-readable medium” and is thus non-statutory for that reasons. A computer node can range from paper on which the program is written, to a program simply contemplated and memorized by a person. The examiner suggests amending the claim to embody the computer program on “computer-readable medium” in order to make the claim statutory.

“In contrast, a claimed computer-readable medium encoded with the data structure defines structural and functional interrelationships between the data structure and the computer software and hardware components which permit the data structure’s functionality to be realized, and is thus statutory.” - MPEP 2106.IV.B.1(a)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

3. Claim 1 claims a method of “mapping color space with chromatic formulations”.

Clarification is needed since there is no limitation on how to map color space. “Chromatics” should be defined in step (a). “white” and “black” need to be defined since it is indefinite on how to formulate the selected chromatics with white or black in step (b). Clarification on how “the chromatic formulations populate a desirable volume of color space”. In step (c), “contributions of chromatics, white and black” and “incremental substitutions thereof” are vague and need clarification.

4. Concerning claim 2, “variation of black with white”, “variation of two different chromatics with white”, “variation of both black and chromatics with white” and “variation of two different chromatics with white” need to be described.

5. Concerning claim 3, definition are needed for “nodes” and “computed nodes”.

6. Concerning claim 10, "empirical evidence" in (1), "variation of black with white", "variation of two different chromatics with white", "variation of both black and chromatics with white" and "variation of two different chromatics with white" in (i)-(iv) need to be defined or described.

7. Claim 1 recites the limitation "the contributions" in line 9. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Conclusion

8. Claims 1-12 are rejected.
